Mozafati Dates Organic Products

Mazafati or Mozafati also called the Bam date, is a cultivar of the date. It is grown in southern Iran, mainly in Bam, It is a dark, soft, fleshy and sweet date of medium size (2.5 to 4.5 cm),[5][4] with a relatively high moisture content of between %35-18; it varies depending on the time of harvest and the location of the grove. The date is suited for fresh consumption, i.e. not dried.[6] At a temperature of 5-0 degrees Celsius (23 °F) it can be kept for up to 2 years or 12 months at 5-0 °C.[8][7] Mazafati Date harvesting time depends on the variety and starts in August, lasting to the end of October.[5] This variety is the most common variety of fresh dates for snacking and table eating.

As one of the largest growing regions of «Mazafati» Fresh Dates, Bam region has around 28000 Hectares of the lands under the harvest of «mazafati» date from which 5000 Hectares pertains to young palm trees. It is estimated that Mozafati dates account for %20 of Iran's total export of dates.[7] Approximately 120,000 tons of the date is being harvested from the land annually.[1] Mazafati date palms can stay in production for over 60 years.[9]

Mozafati date seeds are made up of %9.7-7.7 oil and make up %14.2-5.6 of the date's weight. They contain %9-7.17 moisture, %5.3-1.83 protein, %9.32-6.8 fat, %65.5 carbohydrates, %13.6-6.4 fibre and %1.57-0.89 ash, as well as sterols, estrone and an alkali-soluble polysaccharide. The fatty acids contained in the oil are %8 lauric, %4 myristic, %25 palmitic, %10 stearic, %45 oleic and %10 linoleic, as well as some caprylic and capric acid.[10]

Piyarom Dates Organic Products

Dates are one of the most popular fruits packed with an impressive list of essential nutrients, vitamins, and minerals that are required for normal growth and overall well-being. Fresh dates compose of soft, easily digestible flesh and simple sugars like fructose and dextrose. The fruit is rich in dietary fiber, which prevents LDL cholesterol absorption in the gut. They contain health benefiting flavonoid polyphenolic antioxidants known as tannins. Tannins are known to possess anti-infective, antiinflammatory and anti-hemorrhagic properties.

Piyarom dates are one of the most delicious kinds of dates fruits which are not too sweet, not too hard, not too soft, not too juicy and wrapped with a very thin and light skin which makes a great feel and taste when eaten.

Medjool Dates Organic Products

Medjool, Medjoul, or Majhool (Arabic: مجهول, meaning «Unknown») is a large, sweet cultivated variety of date (Phoenix dactylifera) from Morocco, also grown in the United States, Saudi Arabia, South Africa, Jordan, Palestine and Bam Iran. The variety is planted both for harvesting and for landscaping. The Medjool is a distinct landrace, described as producing «large soft fruit, with orange-yellowish flesh, and a mildly rich and pleasing flavor». The Medjool is very soft, rich amber-red and very sweet. It is so full of natural sugars that its outer skin shines with sugar crystals. It has a luscious, spiced, almost baked taste. And it will be expensive mostly because growing and harvesting Medjool dates is so labor-intensive. After hand pollination, the trees must be netted to protect them from dust and rain, and the crop must be thinned and hand harvested again and again because the dates, even from one tree, all ripen at different times. The Medjool are sumptuous enough to be simply eaten out of hand—beware, each does contain a pit. They are also a good source of nutrition, high in carbohydrates and containing some protein and many vitamins. You'll find them in season from September through November, and they'll keep in a container in the refrigerator for up to six months.

SYRUP

Dates Syrup Organic Products

Date honey, date syrup, date molasses or rub is a thick dark brown, very sweet fruit syrup extracted from dates. It is widely used in North African and Middle Eastern cooking.

It is used widely in Libya, usually with asida.

It is used in Iran, as a Dip for bread, in pastries, as a topping for Cakes, In Iranian cuisine, date syrup (in Persian: شیره خرما) is used to sweeten ardeh (tahini), consumed at breakfast. An alternative is grape syrup.

Date syrup is rich in the monosacchirides glucose and fructose, and so most of its sugar content is absorbed into the bloodstream in the mouth, meaning that it raises the blood glucose levels more efficiently and immediately than other syrups. It is therefore highly suitable for people suffering from hypoglycaemia, or for those with sucrose intolerance or those with pancreatic problems who have difficulty absorbing disacchirides.[Date Syrup is higher in magnesium and potassium than some natural sweeteners such as maple syrup and honey and so has been a popular alternative to sugar in recent years.

SUGAR

Dates Sugar Organic Products

Date sugar is made from dried dates and adds a rich sweetness to recipes, although it will not dissolve when added to drinks. It also does not melt like granulated sugar which can limit its use. It is sometimes promoted as a healthier alternative to brown sugar, although it can be quite expensive. Date sugar is made from the date palm fruit, date sugar is a less refined sugar than typical white sugar. %60 of the weight of the date palm fruit is sucrose, and it has a higher sugar content than both cane sugar and beet sugar. Date sugar is considered an alternative to refined white sugar, and studies have shown that it can be substituted in many foods and beverages without much loss in flavor.

Nutrition Facts

Dates have a great deal of fiber. Although a lot of this is lost when dates are converted to date sugar, there is still fiber that remains. In addition, dates are low in fat and protein. In addition, dates have lots of vitamins and minerals, especially vitamins B and C. There are also many antioxidants in dates. Although all of these health benefits are less prominent after dates are converted to date sugar, they are still beneficial. In addition, date sugar lacks the chemicals from processed, refined, white sugar.
